THE Saltbox
CHRISTIAN CENTRE

Mr Jonathan Bellamy,
Chief Executive,
Conway House,
The Parade,
Hanley,
Stoke-on-Trent.

5 November 2004.

Dear Mr Bellamy,

Thank you for your comments about my application to stand for the City Council and for your willingness to write in support.

I have been delighted to observe the growing development since you commenced broadcasting in February 2003. Your station has become one of the communities that we represent would be the most impressed. We have been in the forefront of the way in which you have

Equally impressive has been the way in which you have established effective links with private and statutory bodies. The organisations we represent would have expected to be able to deal with these issues in a professional manner. We would also readily identify with the Christian ethos of broadcasting. However, it has been the way in which you have developed links with groups and individuals in secular organisations in an equitable and even-handed manner that has been so encouraging.

To me personally, though, the hallmark of your presence has been the outstanding way in which you have dealt with so many local community issues. At times the sensitive handling of various health, education, crime, business and political issues has been exemplary. Local media are rightly criticised at times for their coverage of events in which they are involved, but your fair and even-handed approach to all issues has been a model for professionalism in broadcasting.

I hope your worthy endeavours over the last few years will have their proper reward and that you will be immensely successful in all that you do.

Every blessing,